

Returned to the palace full of the praises of the princeps Diu Toz increased more and more in the favour of the Emperor and in the mean time a son was born unto him by the princeps when the Emperor was informed of this event to distinguished him still more by his loyal munificence being highly gratified with his conduct. It happened one day that the King went a hunting accompanied by Diu Toz when a deer started before him the King said Now show your archery and nail the hinder foot of this deer to his neck Diu Toz drew his arrow in the name of God and as the deer was scratching his ear with his hinder foot he left fly and nailed both foot and ear to his neck the deer gave a struggle and fell on the ground The Shah was delighted to perceive the accuracy with which his order was executed and applauded his archery to the skies as they returned to the city there was a gale of wind accompanied with some drops of rain - -

A gentle fanning gale of Spring Scarce mid the flowers was head to sing
